

Cookie policy

Cookies Choices

Cookies and similar technologies (“Cookies”) are required for the full and proper functioning of this site and to provide you the optimum experience. Cookies are also used to develop and serve ads, content or features that are more relevant to your interests. Please review the information below and our Cookies Policy.

At Ubuntu Markets we use cookies on our website to allow us to recognise you on subsequent visits, or to authorise other designated websites to recognise you. Cookies may be used by us for other purposes such as to remember your preferences on our Website, to remember your user ID on our Website, and to help you navigate between pages more efficiently. Cookies can also be used by us to collect information about webpages visited and content viewed by you, links and buttons clicked, URLs visited before and after you visit our Website. Much, though not all, of the data that is collected through cookies is anonymous, though some of it is designed to detect browsing patterns and approximate geographical location to improve your user experience.

Most browsers have cookies enabled and accept cookies automatically, but you can amend the settings of your browser to erase cookies or prevent automatic acceptance if you wish. Generally, you have the option to accept all cookies, to be notified when a cookie is issued or reject all cookies. Visit the ‘options’ or ‘preferences’ menu on your browser to change settings. You can find more information about how to turn off cookies here.

You can decline most Cookies by clicking on the Manage consent and selecting 'Cookie settings' in pop-up. We are allowed to use certain cookies regardless of your choices, and we will use cookies to maintain your opt-out preferences. Note, if you do not consent to Cookies, some features of the site may not function correctly.

Strictly Necessary Cookies

Always Active

These cookies are necessary for the website to function and cannot be switched off. They are usually only set in response to actions made by you which amount to a request for services, such as setting your privacy preferences, logging in or filling in forms. You can manually set your browser to block or alert you about these cookies, but some parts of the site will not then work.

Functionality Cookies

Functionality Cookies enable a us through the website to remember information that changes the way the website behaves or looks, such as your preferred language or the region that you are in and allows us to personalize the site based on your preferences.

Targeting Cookies

Tracking cookies are used to track visitors across websites. The intention is to display information or ads that are relevant and interesting for the individual user and therefore more valuable for us and other third party advertisers.

If you disable one or more cookie categories, we'll stop using that type of cookie to gather any further information. However, we may still use information collected from existing cookies on your device. If you want to delete existing cookies from your.

For any queries or further information in relation to this Cookies Policy please Contact Us through Customer Support or popi@ubuntumarkets.com.